Football season is a celebration of more than just touchdowns and tackles; it's a festival of community and camaraderie, most vividly expressed through the rituals of tailgating. These pre-game traditions transform stadium parking lots into vibrant social hubs where fans gather, not just prepare for the game, but to connect and create lasting memories.

This month, we're excited to embrace these cherished traditions with a Tailgating Party, followed by a Homecoming Dance featuring the Stefanski Brothers! And to top it all off, get ready for a Spooktacular Halloween Bash that promises to be a seasonal highlight. Join us for great food, fun activities, and the camaraderie that makes this time of year so special!

The Most Enjoyable Fall:

In 1985 Sharon and I registered to attend the Norman Vincent Peale's Pastor's and Wives Convention in Pauling, New York. Our girls were 14 and 11 and just the right age to stay with our neighbors who had girls the identical age. We took off from Indianapolis and drove to our Aunt's home in downtown Pittsburg. We spent two days with her and then took off for New York, going through the battlefields and historical monuments that were all over the area around Gettysburg, PA.

We then drove up through New York. We had already seen more colorful hard wood trees than we ever saw anywhere in the Midwest. By the time we reached Pauling, a little town in Northern New York, we had been immersed in a New England Fall and loved it. The conference center was a former retreat center and it had the loveliest little lake in the middle of the retreat center. A beautiful dining room curled around the shore of the lake and served as the perfect place to have our meals. The Peale's chose a couple each meal to eat with them and Sharon and I had the privilege to be that chosen couple the last evening of the retreat. We loved the stories that Mr. and Mrs. Peale shared with us about their ministry. We drove to see the Statue of Liberty the next day and then off through Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, and Canada. We found our first discount mall in Maine and saw states and countries clothed in fall beauty. It was the fall of a lifetime. Enjoy your precious fall memories.

God bless you--Chaplain Tom
